DECISION 2-1

By Win Over Union Team at Easton
Lafayette Wins Triangular for Second Time

The Hamilton debate team consisting of Frederick W. Fuess, '24, Captain, John C. Toaz, '25, Hamilton H. Bookhout, '27, and Glenn B. Snyder, '25, alternate, was defeated by a Lafayette team consisting of Herbert R. Brown, '24, Paul S. Lehman, '25, and O. Jacob Tallman, '24, by a two to one decision Friday evening, March 14, in the chapel. The question was: Resolved, that the present immigration law should be re-enacted. This was the same subject of the debate between Union and Lafayette at Lafayette the same evening. The Union-Hamilton debate scheduled for the same evening was postponed one week.

Brown opened the debate for the visitors by giving a brief history of the question. He stated that the vital problem of immigration did not become acute until the latter part of the nineteenth century. He pointed out that various laws had been enacted to meet the problem, but that the debate of the evening would center about the 3% law of 1921. After defining this law, he stated that the affirmative asked for the re-enactment of the law, and the negative had its choice of either allowing no immigrants in, or allowing all in.

Bookhout, as first speaker for the negative, pointed out that the present restrictions are unjust to both the immigrant and to the United States. "It is unjust to the immigrant," he said, "because it is merely a gamble as to who comes into this country. He quoted Elbert Hubbard in showing how the law was unjust to the United States. "It is impossible," he continued, "for doctors to give a thorough mental and physical examination at the rate of eight a minute. Surely this is not just to the United States."

Paul S. Lehman, second speaker for the affirmative, continued the argument by stating that the negative must show some definite plan; if they were not in favor of the 1921 plan, which would be superior in every respect to that law, or the country would be thrown open to one and a fifth million immigrants. Lehman covered the economic side of the question and stated that the betterment of all economic situations was due to the three per cent law. "All organizations," he concluded, "that deal with industry advocate this law."

John C. Toaz continued the argument for the negative by pointing out that even if restriction by quota were right in regulating immigration, the present three per cent law should not be re-enacted because it hardly meets a general kind of situation.

Tallman, speaking for the affirmative, said, "There is a vast difference between law and its enforcement. The present immigration law does provide adequately for this situation and it is not the fault of the affirmative if that law is not enforced adequately." He suggested that the vast profits reaped by the United States government from immigration should be used to secure more efficient service at the ports of immigration and to alleviate conditions at Ellis Island. He advocated selective immigration and quoted Secretary of Labor Davis in support of such a plan.

Fuess, in concluding the presentation of advance argument for the negative, stated that the idea of restriction is fundamentally false since the United States is receiving the same type of immigrants now as before only a fewer number. He pointed out Canada as an example of where the selective law of immigration had worked successfully.

In rebuttal, the order of the affirmative speakers was as follows: Lehman, Tallman, Brown. The order of the negative speakers remained the same. The rebuttal was a live and heated one. Fuess' work, which was especially convincing and destructive of opposing arguments, concluded the debate for the negative in a very satisfactory fashion. Unfortunately for the Hamilton team, Lafayette had the last rebuttal speech in which Brown pointed out most effectively the inconsistencies of the negative and very cleverly annihilated the majority of their authorities.

Professor Calvin L. Lewis presided and the judges were Prof. Clifford E. Gates of Colgate University, Dr. F. J. Douglas and Attorney Arthur W. Foley, both of Utica.

Newcomers

Manager Sessions has announced the baseball schedule for the coming season. The list includes games with some of the larger colleges and universities such as Cornell, Colgate, Williams, Rochester and Clarkson. The season opens away on May 3rd with the University of Rochester. The first home game is with Union on May 10th. On May 17th, the probable house party date, the varsity meets Rochester here. There are ten games in all, with return games with Rochester and Union, the season ending on May 30th with the Union game at Schenectady.

Practice started last week, the nature of the work-outs in the gym being bunting and catching practices. The pitchers have also been working out and there has been fielding practice. The net will be lowered this week and batting practice will start. Varsity practice is three times a week, on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday. The freshmen, for the present, are having their work-outs on Tuesday and Thursday.

The complete schedule for the season is as follows: May 3, Rochester at Rochester; May 7, Cornell at Ithaca; May 10, Union at Clinton; May 14, Williams at Clinton; May 17, Rochester at Clinton; May 20, Colgate at Hamilton; May 22, St. Lawrence at Clinton; May 27, St. Stephen's at Andale; May 28, Clarkson Tech at Clinton; May 30, Union at Schenectady.

CHARLATANS WILL STAGE
"THE FAITHFUL" IN UTICA

Neal E. McHargue, manager of the Charlatans, is making arrangements for the performance of "The Faithful" in Utica. He expects to get an engagement for about two weeks after the Easter vacation at the Utica Country Day School, followed by a dance in the Yahmudasis Country Club, which adjoins the school.

"The Faithful" by John Masefield is a tragedy whose scene is laid in Japan. It was first played in England and then later, in 1918, by the New York Theater Guild. The leading part, that of Kurano, is taken by Frank H. Robson, '26. Kira is played by William B. Baer, '24, who is president of the Charlatans.

EUPORIAN RELIEF DRIVE

Hamilton's contribution to the Student Friendship Fund was collected last Wednesday after chapel. When the collection was counted, it was found that there was about $225 in cash and enough in pledges to bring the total up to $300. This is an average of less than one dollar a man, and is considerably lower an average than has been obtained at other colleges. As much as three dollars per student was subscribed at Smith. Those in charge wish all who signed pledges to pay them as soon as possible in order to get the money on the way to its destination quickly. Anyone who was unable to contribute

Wednesday morning and wishes to do so now, should see a member of the Interfraternity Council at once. The sum Hamilton has given will feed two hundred students for one month.

The course in Appreciation of Art given by Mr. Root will begin three weeks before the Easter recess and continue for three weeks afterwards. There will be two divisions of ten men each open to seniors and juniors. Three hours a week. Credit, one semester-hour. All men interested are requested to submit their names to the office at once.

The next Myers Lecture will be held in the week of April 1st. The lecturer will be Roy Chapman Andrews, an explorer and writer of note.

National Committee Plans to Form
Hamilton College Republican ClubOver One Hundred Clubs Now Organized Throughout Country—Speakers of National Prominence to be Furnished—Alumni Will Act in Advisory Capacity—Elihu Root, '64, Mentioned for Honorary Chairmanship.

Plans are now under way for the establishment of a College Republican Club at Hamilton, similar to those in operation at Yale, Harvard, Dartmouth, Amherst, and other colleges. As soon as the executive committee, acting in behalf of the College Bureau of the Republican National Committee, disposes of the preliminary details, a college meeting will be called and a membership campaign launched.

Following the usual custom, it is planned to form an alumni advisory committee. This committee of the Harvard Club contains the names of Henry Cabot Lodge, '71, Leonard Wood, M '84, Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., '09, and other influential members of the party. It is planned to tender the honorary chairmanship of the committee here to Elihu Root, '64. The Hamilton Club will be the second in New York State, there being only one other at Cornell.

With active programs for stimulating undergraduate interest in national affairs, over one hundred college Republican clubs are now organized over the country, the College Bureau of the National Republican Committee announced last week. Many others will be formed during the coming weeks. The Bureau, established to undertake the work of organization on a permanent, nation-wide basis is directing the movement in leading colleges and universities, under national director John Hamlin, Royal R. Jordan and J. W. Hayes, assistant national directors.

The purpose of these clubs, as outlined by Chairman John T. Adams of the Republican National Committee, is two-fold. Not only will they promote student discussion of national issues through addresses by speakers prominent in public life, but also will serve to interest the college man and woman in the basic principles of the Republican Party. Enrollment of the Republican student body, mass meetings and addresses, instruction on the ballot, information regarding absent-

CHOIR AT WESTMINSTER
CHURCH ON MON., MAR. 24Will Be First Appearance Away from Hill—Harp Soloist Added to Program—Utica Director Praises
Technique

The Hamilton College Choir will make its first public appearance away from the Hill next Monday night, when it will give a recital of choral music in the Westminster Presbyterian Church in Utica. The program given will be the same as that of the Commons concert of Feb. 29, with one important exception. The work of the choir will be varied, not by a string quartette as before, but by harp solos, given by Mrs. Mildred Faulkner Rice, the able soloist of the Syracuse Symphony Orchestra. Tickets for the recital are on sale in Utica at Earl B. Worden's music store, at a price of one dollar. They should be purchased some time in advance, as the seating capacity of the church is limited, and positively no tickets will be sold at the door. They may be secured on the Hill from Professor Fancher, or from members of the choir.

This recital is the immediate outcome of the very fine work done by the choir in its recent concert in the Hall of Commons. Although very few Utica people were able to attend, those who did were deeply impressed by the high degree of technical skill reached by the men, and the great beauty of many of the numbers; and judging from the number of people who have since talked of engaging the choir for recitals, it would appear that the organization has a brilliant future ahead of it.

In criticizing the recent appearance of the choir, Mr. Johannes Magendanz, director of the Utica Conservatory of Music, said in the Utica Press: "The make-up of the organization was on the whole well balanced. The basses had by far the better of the tenors, for the latter were somewhat unyielding in resonance and noticeably weak in point of actual vigor; but then that is nothing unusual in male choruses. The opening number was decidedly impressive. Wonderful contrasts were produced by charming echo effects. Two selections by Palestrina offered a welcome glimpse into the peculiar devotional emotion of the master; the chaste, simple and yet characteristic sequences suggest vividly such a canelle singing as was practised in medieval ages.

tee voters, strow votes and mock conventions are included in the scope of the clubs' activities. Student interest in national affairs and policies has already been aroused at several colleges through addresses by Senator James Wadsworth of New York, Solicitor General James M. Beck, Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, Assistant Secretary of the Navy, and other Republicans well known in public life.

Speakers are now to be provided for every college Republican Club, as far as is possible, according to the College Bureau. In addition, each club will have the hearty support of its Republican alumni, several of whom will be invited to address meetings in the course of the college year. These speakers will not only promote the intelligent discussion of important political questions, but will also direct the student's attention to the fundamental principles of the Republican Party.

Wherever undergraduate clubs have been organized, plans have been made to enroll the Republican alumni in similar associations to co-operate with the student organization. In this way, the clubs will have the interest and support of a large number of graduates, many of whom are already serving in an advisory capacity.

Prominent Republicans, many of them graduates of colleges where Republican Clubs are now playing an important part in undergraduate affairs, are strong in their endorsement of the move for political education among the student bodies of the country. From all over the United States, messages of congratulation on the work are being received by the individual clubs and by the College Bureau. News articles and editorials from college newspapers and daily press encourage the plan, and from the enthusiastic reception accorded the early activities of the clubs elsewhere, there is every indication of the success of the movement at Hamilton.

DR. ERSKINE EXPERIMENTS
IN GASOLINE DISTILLATIONIs Joint Author of Article in Chemical Journal—Work Carried on in Lab
Here Last Year

Dr. A. Mortimer Erskine of the Department of Chemistry is one of the authors in the March issue of "Industrial and Engineering Chemistry" of a paper dealing with the results of a series of experiments on the fractional distillation of gasoline. The work was started in the laboratories of the United Natural Gas Co., at Oil City, Pa., in the summer of 1922 and was carried to completion in the Hamilton College laboratory last year. Dr. Erskine has been associated with Dr. R. P. Anderson, Chief Chemist of the United Natural Gas Co., and formerly Professor of Chemistry at Cornell University.

The article covers the results obtained from a careful study of natural gas gasoline taken from the gas fields of Western Pennsylvania. Although the great bulk of the country's gasoline is obtained by the distillation of crude petroleum, recent developments have resulted in the extraction of important amounts of gasoline vapor from natural gas.

This natural gasoline is of two types. The first is generally spoken of as casing head gasoline. It is obtained by the compression and refrigeration of the gas rising in the casings of oil wells. The other is obtained by absorbing the much smaller amounts of gasoline vapor from ordinary dry natural gas.

Petroleum and the commercial products from it, in general consist of extremely complex mixtures of chemical compounds. The general composition of ordinary gasoline is fairly well known, although gasolines from different sources vary to a large extent. But up until this time practically nothing has been done to make an exact study of the composition of natural gas gasoline. The work of Dr. Erskine and Dr. Anderson is virtually the first of its kind in this field. One of the most unique features of the study was the isolation in the pure state of the isomers corresponding to the normal hydrocarbons, pentane, hexane, and heptane.

Dr. Erskine came to Hamilton from Smith College in the fall of 1922 to fill the vacancy caused by the absence of Dean Saunders, who was then on sabbatical leave.

COLGATE RELAY TEAM
WINS UTICA EXHIBITIONCapt. Alison in Final Sprint Unable to Overcome Maroon Lead—Buff and Blue May Run in Buffalo
Meet

The Hamilton College relay team was defeated by Colgate University in an exhibition race in the Utica State Armory Saturday night. Running its first intercollegiate race on an indoor track, the Buff and Blue quartet was forced to concede victory to the experienced Maroon combination. The winners led by a margin of four and one-fifth seconds at the end of the final race.

Both teams were greatly handicapped by the poor condition of the track which slowed down the winner's time to 2:45 3-5. Vadney, second Colgate runner, fell twice but recovered in time to keep the lead. The meet was a pursuit race, the two teams starting at opposite sides of the track, thus making it impossible for the crowd to know which team was ahead until the finish of the meet. The distance of the relay was one thousand metres, each man running around the track four times.

The feature of the relay was the brilliant running of Capt. Alce Alison, Buff and Blue anchor man and holder of college records in the 100 and 220, in a final effort to nose out Granning, Colgate's last runner. The other members of the Hamilton team were V. Alison, '24, DeLalla, '26, and Potoeki, '24, who ran in the order named. The Maroon team was composed of Watson, Vadney, Fuller and Granning.

The exhibition race was held in connection with an indoor high school meet in the Utica Armory which was won by the Schenectady High School.

The Hamilton College track team may be represented by from six to ten men in an intercollegiate indoor track meet to be held in the Buffalo 74th Regiment Armory some time in April. Tentative plans are being made for the Buffalo meet, and, if it is held, the Buff and Blue has promised to send a team. This will mark the first time in years that Hamilton has had representatives at an intercollegiate indoor meet, the Buff and Blue having confined itself in recent years to outdoor meets on the cinder path.

SPRING PRACTICE FOR FALL
SPORTS WILL START SOON

Coach Carroll is planning to have spring football practice as soon as the weather becomes favorable for it. The purpose of this practice will be to give the football men who are to be back next fall a thorough knowledge of the fundamentals of the game. There will be a workout each day. Football men who are out for some other sport at that time will attend some of the practice sessions. Practice will probably last until the latter part of May. Spring football has proved successful at other colleges and has therefore been adopted at Hamilton.

There will also be soccer practice this spring. The purpose largely is, as for spring football, to teach the players the elements of the game. Special attention will be given by Coach Gelas to the development of some backfield players to fill the places on next fall's team that will be left vacant by the graduation of Heffron, Moore, and Meehan, '24. Practice will begin as soon as the field is ready for use.

No definite plans have been made as yet for spring tennis. Probably, however, the same will be done as last year. About the first or second week in April the men who are going out for the sport will start doing conditioning work in the gym so as to be in shape when the courts are ready.

Manager Steel has arranged a fine schedule for the team. It is: April 30, Colgate at Clinton; May 3, Rochester at Rochester; May 10, St. Stephens at Clinton; May 14, Syracuse at Syracuse; May 17, Syracuse at Clinton; May 21, Hobart at Clinton; May 24, Union at Clinton; May 30, Union at Schenectady; May 31, St. Lawrence at Clinton.

Hamilton won its first home contest in its division of the Intercollegiate Fencing League Saturday night, defeating Cornell decisively by a score of 13-4. From the first few bouts Hamilton's superiority was evident, especially in the foils; and although the visitors were able to do better in the last two divisions, the outcome was never in doubt. The team showed a marked improvement since its two defeats on the recent southern trip, which is especially shown in the fact that Cornell had previously defeated Penn, to whom Hamilton lost 7-10 on March 7th.

An excellent showing was made by the Buff and Blue foilsmen, Scott, Packer, and G. Kittell, each of whom won all three of their bouts. Scott and Packer had a hard time with Coleman, who ran them up to 4-4 before he was finally defeated, and Packer also found some trouble in disposing of Hays; but the other bouts were won without much difficulty. In the sabre and epee divisions, Cornell was able to hold its own, winning two out of the four contests in each. Captain Ogilvie found L. Packer's stop thrusts too much for his rushing attack, in a spectacular bout that wavered long at 4-4; but he won his revenge later against Kerr, defeating him handily. Johnson lost to Kerr, but defeated Packer without much trouble. In the epee, Kittell lost his first bout to Hays, but won later against Coleman. Scovel lost to Coleman. Gregory, fighting his first intercollegiate bout, did excellent work, defeating Hays.

Mr. Sherman Hall of the New York Athletic Club acted as referee.

The next contest in which the Hamilton fencers will participate will be a match with Columbia's strong team on Saturday, March 29th. This meet will be the last of the season's schedule and the showing that the Buff and Blue fencers make against the visiting swordsmen will determine their eligibility for competition in the finals which are to be held at New York on April 3 and 4. A match with Syracuse was previously scheduled for the 22nd of the month but was recently cancelled by the Orange.

Columbia will come to the Hill with a formidable record for the season, and is especially to be feared in the foils. Their foils team of last year which defeated the Hamilton fencers in their first season of competition by a 7-2 score, has remained intact and has done very good work in its meets this season. They defeated the Penn foilsmen 9-0, and the final score of the team meet with Penn was 12-2. Penn defeated Hamilton 10-7 in their recent trip, and defeated the foils team 5-4. This is the only available score which shows Columbia's work against teams of Hamilton's division in the League. They met the Navy on the 15th while Hamilton was defeating Cornell, and will meet Cornell next Saturday. However, Columbia has met teams outside the division, notably Harvard and the Army. They were defeated by the Crimson fencers by the decisive score of 11-4, but their foils team won from the Army.

Captain Fuertes was defeated last year in two bouts by the Hamilton foilsmen, but Bloomer and Barrett won all their bouts. They will come to the Hill with a clean slate in this year's competition and will fight hard to preserve their present standing.

The Columbia sabres and epee have not had the impressive record of the Provincialism.

Anyone who is familiar with life on College Hill cannot fail to realize that it possesses a certain uniqueness. It is the peculiar seclusion which surrounds the community from the outside world. Except when a college organization is playing in Utica or Clinton, there is seldom occasion for any large number of men leaving the Hill. For the purpose of forming studious habits our situation is ideal, but for the purpose of getting a broader outlook on life—meeting acquaintances, appreciating new viewpoints, and enlarging one's interests, our location is something of a hindrance.

One of the boasted benefits of the small college is the opportunity it affords a man for establishing closer contact with his teachers. Yet, the serious-minded student who cares to know a subject more intimately by an outside-the-classroom relation is at once suspected of the grossest crime.

How often we hear the argument that a small college permits a man to know practically everybody else and certainly everyone in his class. Perhaps our "Hello" custom is supposed to accomplish this. The fact is that our cloistral atmosphere does not develop a person's circle, but actually forces upon him a provincialism.

We now have eleven fraternities of which nearly 90% of the men in college are affiliated. Colleges in which this problem is so well solved are indeed rare. But from the very nature of this system, however, a man's vision is the more stunted. His friendships secure, he seldom stirs from the comfortable seat of his fraternity bridge table to seek a new acquaintance. His sanctity he regards as a monastic virtue.

It was with a view towards breaking down this barrier that a "visiting night" was inaugurated at Northwestern a few years ago. According to the scheme, four or five men from each fraternity rotate to another house each week and in that way meet fellows whom they would not otherwise. At Union they have a system of luncheon exchanges based on a similar plan. The obligation is purely voluntary and only those crowds that enter the "round robin" are affected.

It seems that this is a fit subject for our Interfraternity Council to consider. We realize the impossibility of imposing instantaneous friendships by any mechanical means of this kind. The plan makes no such guarantee. It is, however, a means of cutting down petty partisanships and making for a more unified college spirit. As such it is not unworthy of thought. If the idea of a dinner exchange is unfavorable, what about an informal Sunday afternoon get-together at the various houses with perhaps some visitor, alumnus, or faculty member present? Here we have a proposal for "the greatest good to the greatest number." Do you want a chance to broaden your experiences? H. F. H.

"Whatsoever a Man Soweth—"

Advertising experts tell us that the "word of mouth" variety brings in the best returns. In the case of a college it is certainly true. Its alumni, as its products, are the most loyal examples of the doctrines they preach.

The same is true of athletic teams. Their conduct is the standard for the judging of the college which they represent. But they are also a potent advertising force for the college which they visit. And as such they should be aided in forming as good an impression as possible. If you care for an illustration, simply ask any member of a Varsity team about the sort of treatment he received at so-and-so.

It has been one of the weak spots until now in our managerial system that the number of ass-managers has not always been large enough to take care of the visiting team's needs. Under the new system, however, with a larger number from which to pick, the possibility of a visiting team having to suffer from lack of attention is unlikely. So much for the official side.

But it is far more important that the attitude of the individual toward the visiting team guests should be one of good will. It is by the student that the college is largely appraised. If we are to keep up Hamilton's reputation of being "the biggest little college in the country," we must present it to our visitors with a good big friendly welcome.

The Republican Club.

Ever since the first of the year, the national committees of the two major parties have been working on plans for the coming Presidential election in November. According to John T. Adams, the chairman of the Republican organization, the establishment of college clubs on a permanent basis with a definite and uniform program will be a feature of this year's campaign.

The immediate response to the suggestion will probably be that there are too many time consuming organizations in college now. As a matter of fact a club of this kind will take very little time. The arrangements are in the hands of an executive committee of eight whose work is neither burdensome nor excessive. Meetings are required but once a month.

The opportunity of forming such a club here is welcome for several reasons. Perhaps one of the greatest benefits is that it will give those who want to learn something of our government's working an opportunity to hear some speakers of national prominence. The club will form a sort of supplement to our Myers lecture course and incidentally get us in touch with the present political situation. It will provide a means for instruction in enrollment, the ballot, absentee voting, and the other details that the prospective voter must become acquainted with. It may provide a forum for debate similar to that which Mr. Root suggested here last September.

In fact, if it succeeds in encouraging a competitor—a Democratic Club, as has happened elsewhere, its purpose will be worth while. For as ex-President Hadley says in his essay on "The Political Duties of the Citizen": "The great political question before us is not whether this or that party shall be kept in power or whether one law or another shall be passed. The question is rather whether our present system of government shall stand. To be indifferent to the evils in the body politic is only one remove from being indifferent to the sins of one's own life." H. F. H.

The following for a late issue of "Time" tells of the recent "scoop" of the Hol-Nord Features, 500 Fifth Avenue, of which John Van Norden, '20, is one of the proprietors:

"Some enterprising journalist has invited Dr. Walter E. Traprock, F. R. S., S. E. U., lecturer and author of 'The Cruise of the Kawa,' 'My Northern Exposure,' and 'Sarah of the Sahara,' whose real name is Geo. S. Chappell, to investigate Teapot Dome. The obliging doctor is producing a series of articles which are being syndicated for the press by Hol-Nord Features. The articles are in the form of regular news stories, under Washington date line, and contain everything but a shadow of the truth."

The stores, of course, are of a humorous nature and have been well received.

—Dr. Ferry is in receipt of a letter from William P. Fenn, '23, who is now teaching at the North American School in Peking, China. He tells of a recent dinner of Hamilton College alumni at the Peking American College Club at which the following were present: Rev. Gilbert Reid, '79, Rev. Courtenay H. Fenn, '87, Henry C. Fenn, '16, and John G. Reid, '21. They had as their guests Dr. Wellington Koo, Dr. Councilman of Harvard, and Admiral Tsai Ting Kau.

Alumni News

Compiled by Prof. W. H. Squires, '88

—Rev. H. V. P. Bogue, '63, of Avon, has an article in one of the late issues of "The Herald and Presbyterian" called "A Strange Document." The document referred to is the one signed by 150 Presbyterians ministers entitled: "An affirmation designed to safeguard the unity and liberty of the Presbyterian Church." Dr. Bogue takes issue with the "Affirmation" and shows how it is at variance with the doctrines of the Presbyterian Church as lately affirmed by the General Assembly, the ultimate authority on doctrine. The article is one of great vigor, pitiless analysis, and conclusive from the point of view which Dr. Bogue represents.

—Thomas H. Lee, '83, has presented a set of books, numbering some 60 volumes on the world's greatest literature, to the library of the Theta Delta Chi Charge in Hamilton College.

—Robert A. Patteson, '87, has attracted much favorable attention on account of the splendid showing of the Tarrytown National Bank when it lately declared an extra dividend of 18%. The stock of this bank is selling at $2.75. The Tarrytown Daily News speaks appreciatively of President Patteson: "The success of the bank and its soundness are due to the management of President Patteson. He is one of the most conservative bankers in the country. He is known as one of the best bankers in the country and some of the biggest bankers in New York City have a high esteem of his ability. The affairs of the bank were never in better condition than they are today."

—Hon. Albert R. Kessinger, '38, has been lately appointed to represent the Democrats of Oneida County as delegate to the National Presidential Convention to be held in New York City. Kessinger has been Mayor or Rome, Postmaster of that city for several years and was one of the 14 Commissioners appointed by the State Legislature to build the Million Dollar Court House in Utica. Kessinger is known to be, reported to be, and believed to be, either 'wet' or 'dry' on the Prohibition issue!

—Ex-Senator Joseph I. France, '95, of Maryland, has declared his endorsement of Senator Johnson of California for President. Dr. France is a progressive on all national and international questions. He has made two trips to Russia to investigate matters there and has much sympathy with the Russians favoring the recognition of the Soviet Government by the United States. Papers of New York and other cities have mentioned favorably France's candidacy for the Presidency on the Progressive ticket. But France declares that he is not a candidate for the Presidency or any other office. Dr. France has opened Johnson headquarters in Baltimore.

—Arthur E. Bullard, '03, is the author of a number of books on international subjects. He is the editor of "Our World." He resigned some time ago as chief of the Russian Division of the State Department. He was a member of the Wartime Committee of Public Information with headquarters at Moscow in 1917, and later was transferred to Vladivostok. When Lord Cecil cabled Norman H. Davis, Undersecretary of State in the Wilson administration, and informed him of his appointment by the Council of the League of Nations as President of a commission to determine the status of Memel in the Baltic Zone, Mr. Davis said he would not go unless he could have as his Assistant, Arthur Bullard.

—Theodore D. Beckwith, Ph.D., '04, Professor of Experimental Bacteriopathology in the University of California, has published several papers recently in the Journal of Immunology.

—Neil F. Towner, '96, has lately appeared as one of the leading attorneys in the Surrogate's Court in Catskill where an imposing array of attorneys, brokers, railroad men, and industrial magnates appeared in the case of the late Anthony N. Brady, New York financier, involving an estate of over $75,000,000.

—J. Edwin Sweet, M.D., Sc.D., '97, was the author of the "Mutter Lecture" for 1923 at the University of Pennsylvania.

—Alexander H. Woolcott, '09, the dramatic critic of the New York Herald, is the author of a most entertaining book recently published by Putnam's entitled "Enchanted Aisles."

—John D. Henderson, '08, of Herkimer, has been appointed Deputy Commissioner of State Waterways in the Department of Public Works at Albany under Col. F. S. Green. This carries a salary of $6,500 a year and begins March 1st. John has been keeping the Democratic party alive in Herkimer County for a long time, running for the Assembly, for the State Senate and every other respectable office in order to keep the party name on the ballot. John Dryden Henderson, '68, his father, was the last Democratic Assemblyman from Herkimer County over 40 years ago. John made a splendid record in the late war, and on January 18th was appointed as Captain Q. M. Officers Reserve Corps of the Army.

A Class Distinction

The Hinge-Cap is the insignia of Williams Shaving Cream and of Williams only. You'll notice three things about Williams every time you shave. 1. Williams lather is heavier and holds the moisture in against the beard. Quicker and more thorough softening takes place. 2. Williams lather lubricates your skin — your razor actually seems to "glide" the hairs off. 3. Williams lather leaves the skin in marvelously fine condition. No matter how frequently you shave, your face stays cool, smooth and comfortable.

You'll enjoy every shave with Williams. It is a pure, natural-white cream without any artificial coloring whatsoever.

Carpe Diem

Good morning! How's the Commons breakfast strike you? This and other burning questions have been referred to Carpe's eagle-eyed sleuths to get the dope on. Hereafter any questions of a burning nature are to be parboiled on the grid of this red hot column. To date Carpe by means of a brilliant cross-examination has elicited the information from Holley (alleged to be the J. M. H. of Commons defense fame) that in the much-heralded cooling of the burning and moot question, "Are the five senses necessary for the practical Commons boarder?" he will call no witnesses. "I feel that I need no aid in defending my view that Commons food is edible," vociferated J. M. H., "The facts in my letter to Life cannot be questioned." Pottle, the other party to the dispute, when interviewed said to Carpe: "I want to be a lawyer, and I feel that debating such a burning question will give me valuable practice for the bar. I know the Sigs will bear me out in this."

Speaking of burning questions, we'd like to tell the addicts of this red hot column all about the circumstances of the fire in North recently in which it is alleged that Fleishmann and Vail acted as volunteer firemen, but we don't dare after all the libel suits we have had this term so far. One question that does rankle in our minds, though, is this: "Where was Fire Chief O'Connell at the time when 'spontaneous combustion' (the cause of every unknown fire) started the conflagration in North?" Certainly O'Connell has not proved himself the man we thought him when Ex-Chief Perry resigned. It is sincerely hoped that Fighting Charlie Perry will again put on his boots and be ready to answer any future calls of such a nature. O'Connell deserves to be canned immediately for his laxness.

Those of a literary frame of mind will be pleased to know that Carpe takes extreme pleasure in nominating for the Hall of Fame George Nesbitt (staff photographer, adv.) for his stellar entry into the Fourth Estate. George is responsible for two new items in the Epsilog, Pi Delta Epsilon's trade journal, worthy of any newspaper veteran. We print the first "scoop" in full and the second in part:

"Hamilton College chapter by dint of hard work and untiring efforts of its members has saved for its college the 'Lit,' a literary magazine, that otherwise would have been abandoned. This chapter will hold an interesting series of journalism lectures commencing in February."

"Plans are complete for the publication of a 'scandal sheet' during mid-winter Prom, and it is with the proceeds were consumed. After all, it's of the delegates to the April convention are expected to be paid."

That last article makes us wonder howinell a "scandal sheet" which might have made some money to pay delegates' expenses could hope to escape a libel suit in which all its proceeds were consumed. After all, it's only the bum crooks that get caught.

Legitimate News

The D. U.'s report a large advance demand for houseparty women and are now advertising for a hotel to run the party in.

Nig Stanley has trouble arranging his schedule of women to agree with their best wishes and has consulted Marks for advice on how to make 12 happy at once.

Art Jones has given up hopes of leading Bill Quinn in the straight and narrow, claiming Bill is not responsible, having already acquired a good working knowledge of Utica. Quinn files a counter-claim that he doesn't see Jones often enough to ask his expert advice on anything.

Yule and Phil Robinson report a good house party at Skidmore. The party lasted two hours and then Yule and Phil were sent home with sweet good nights. In preparation for the event Yule cut all his classes and had his hair cut.

Duke Thompson reports that Life is not making a cent this year (advertisement).

Society notes—Duke Thompson will leave for Boston next week on an extended tour of the East.

D. Kittell has done his best to contract a case of mumps but regrets his inability to crash through.

The Alpha Deltas have now risen to fifth place in the fraternity scholarship standing. They attribute this improvement to the fact that Marlow and Jule Kaiser are no longer in their midst.

Says Prettyman, observing that the Dukes had jumped from the cellar to position No. 3: "Who figured that thing up, anyway?"

Following the example of his worthy rival, Bugs, dear old Rocksy is going to have all campus stones, rocks and fossils labeled. He plans not only to inscribe their age, period and chemical composition, but also a brief history showing the dependence of botany on geology.

He: "How much do you weigh?"
She: "Oh, not enough to spoil the crease in your Finchley trousers."

HAMILTON SPEAKERS GO TO UNION ON FRIDAY

Will Complete Triangular Series—St. Lawrence Here on 28th—Middlebury Contest Changed to April 11

A team composed of Lewi, '24, Captain, Walbridge, '26, Barnes, '27, and Gregory, '25, alternate, will journey to Schenectady this Friday to debate a Union affirmative team on the question: That the present immigration law should be re-enacted. This debate will wind up the triangular series between Union and Lafayette. It was to have been staged last Friday, but a house-party function at Union necessitated its postponement. Curiously, Lafayette by their victory here and a victory over a Union affirmative team as Easton has already won the series—for the second year.

Little is known of the team that will oppose the Hamilton team Friday evening. It is known, however, that a Hobart team composed of the same men that appeared here earlier in the year upholding the negative of the same question defeated Union at Geneva on Feb. 29.

The third home debate of the season will be held in the Chapel Friday evening, March 28, when the St. Lawrence team will journey from Canton to meet the Buff and Blue speakers on the question of the World Court. The Hamilton team will uphold the affirmative of this question and will be composed of Perrine, '25, L. Wood, '25, Briggs, '25, and Kirby, '26, alternate. All of the speakers on this team are veteran varsity men and members of Delta Sigma Rho. The team from Canton which will debate Hamilton is to be composed of A. E. Monette, '25, M. G. Tanner, '24, A. S. Torre, '24, Captain, and J. J. Quigley, '26, alternate. The three speakers have each had one year's debating experience.

St. Lawrence takes a great interest in debating, as can be seen from the fact that the annual interclass debate which was once a custom there has been revived through the efforts of the Sophomore Class. A debate on the St. Lawrence water-power development is to be held between the freshmen and sophomores during the first week in April. St. Lawrence has a regular debate coach who is assisted by Professors M. M. Edwards, instructor in English, and E. L. Manning, instructor in Physics. The regular coach is Prof. C. H. Gaines, head of the English department. Two such experienced teams indicate that the Hamilton-St. Lawrence debate will be worth hearing.

The debate with Middlebury has been postponed and will be the last debate of the season as now planned. On April 11 the following men will go to Albany to debate Middlebury: Burroughs, '24, Lehmann, '25, Tyler, '27, and Steel, '25, alternate. The question will be on the Permanent Court of International Justice. Hamilton will uphold the affirmative.

LIBRARY RECEIVES VALUABLE NUMISMATIC COLLECTION

Dr. N. Emmons Paine, '74, of Boston has presented about 100 valuable coins to the college library. When the librarian, Professor Joseph D. Ibbotson, visited Boston recently he brought them back with him. Dr. Paine, now a teacher of psychiatry at Boston University, and formerly the head of a sanatorium, has collected coins for many years. Several years ago he gave some silver and bronze coins to the library. His latest gift, however, contains many beautiful gold pieces. They will be exhibited as soon as possible, probably at the end of the Easter vacation. Each coin comes in a box containing a complete history of it.

Besides their great beauty and rarity, the coins have fascinating historical associations, ranging from Athens in the days of Socrates to the France of Napoleon.

The following list of some of the coins will give an idea of the collection:

- Silver coin of Charlemagne, 8th century.
- Athenian silver tetradrachm, B. C. 400.
- Gold sovereign of Charles I of England, 1625-41.
- Elizabethan golden half sovereign.
- Silver denier of Richard the Lion-Hearted, 1189-99.
- Small Roman coin of Augustus.
- Gold duet of Gustavus Adolphus, 1634.
- Golden aureus of Nero.
- Silver piece of Cromwell.
- Penny of Alfred the Great, 863-871.
- Penny of William the Conqueror, 1066-1087.
- Aureus of Constantine, 306.
- Sovereign of James I of England.
- Silver piece of Carthage, 410 B. C.
- Coin of Cleopatra, 50-58 B. C.

On Friday of this week, March 21, Mr. E. G. Anderson of the Traffic Department of the New York Telephone Company is to speak in several of Professor Patton's classes on the advantages of entering the telephone industry. He will be free to make appointments from 1 until 6 p. m.

ALUMNI GAIN DISTINCTION IN MEDICAL SCIENCE

Dr. Joseph L. Appleton, '09, was a visitor on the Hill on Sunday, March 9. He attended chapel and renewed many of his old acquaintances at Hamilton before leaving for his parents' home at Albany on Sunday afternoon. Dr. Appleton was recently appointed professor of microbiology and bacteriopathology at the University of Pennsylvania School of Dentistry. He received his doctor's degree at the University and was awarded membership to Sigma Xi while studying there. He was graduated from Hamilton with the degree of Bachelor of Science. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa and the Emerson Literary Society.

Word from Harvard Medical School brings the news that the six Hamilton men who are in attendance there are standing within the first third of their respective classes. Under the limitation restrictions established there as a result of the excessive number of applicants each year, the number of students who may be allowed at one time from Hamilton College is four. The work of these students seems to have caused this rule to be waived. They are as follows: S. Stewart Saunders, '17, G. Elliott May, '21, Wendell D. George, '22, Kenneth B. Turner, '22, and H. Louis George, '23, the present holder of the Root Fellowship, and F. William Marlow, '23. Saunders, who was valedictorian of his class here, recently attained the highest grade in the final examination in Anatomy and Materia Medica.

William T. King, '21, and Henry C. Smith, '22, a former Root fellow, are also doing excellent work at Johns Hopkins.

"The difficulty of keeping in pitch is considerable, yet everything went smoothly, as if there existed no such thing as a possible disaster. The selections from the liturgy of the Russian Church were highly interesting from the historical standpoint. They were performed with a great deal of artistry and a fine sense of color; the wonderful effects which the boys produced in dynamic respects were sheer delight.

"The song by Franz Abt was musically the weakest number, and let it be stated frankly—its performance did not reach the general artistic level of the evening's singing. There were bad spots in the middle section, as the tenors were not able to carry the melody sufficiently. The singing of "Deep River" showed similar shortcomings, but it was sung with an unusual degree of abandon and feeling.

"Bach's Chorale, "Now Let Every Tongue Adore Thee", concluded the program, and served as a fitting climax. As an encore a lovely song by Michael Praetorius was given, perhaps one of those compositions which he so devoutly hoped would be printed "through God's grace." I wonder how many hours of credit the boys get for their fine musical work. Five hours would not be too much. Not enough praise can be given to Professor Fancher. His control over the organization is superb. He is a man of delicate musical instincts."

The harp solos to be given by Mrs. Rice are Hahn's "Sehne Erinnerung," the "Song of the Volga Boatmen" as arranged by Salzedo, and a Brahms waltz, Opus 39, No. 15.

foils team, but have made a good showing in all the matches of the season. Ogilvie and Johnson had little difficulty last year in disposing of the Columbia broadswordmen and should repeat their performance. D. Kittell and Seovel or Gregory will handle the epee for Hamilton.

The sabre team with a record up to the present time of two ties and one defeat will not enter the finals in April, and the epee team with two ties and one defeat is no longer eligible, but it is very possible that Hamilton will be represented at the finals by the foils team. With last Saturday's decisive victory over Cornell, its defeat of the Navy team, and its defeat at Penn by the narrow margin of one bout, the team stands well up in the League competition and if they make a good showing against Columbia, they will advance to the finals.

It has not been decided in the League whether two or three teams from each division will be entered in the finals in New York, but whether or not the ruling allowing the first three teams to advance is passed, with their present record, backed up by victories against Columbia, the Hamilton foils have a good chance of meeting the leaders from the other divisions in the finals.

Mr. H. E. Von Kersburg of R. H. Macy & Co., is scheduled to give a group talk today at 4:30 about the training course established by R. H. Macy & Co. for college graduates desirous of entering the retail merchandise trade.

Sportations

Lacrosse is taking the place of track at St. Lawrence this spring. E. G. Bill, '24, who was appointed track manager last spring, will be manager of lacrosse. The team will be coached by Knauss, basketball coach and football line coach.

The Intercollegiate Football Rules committee will hold its annual meeting in New York on Mar. 21 and 22.

Rumor has it that Watson, College's crack pole vaulter, and captain of this year's team, is being groomed for the sprints.

Cambridge University, England, is scheduled to compete in the medley championships at the Penn Relay Carnival at Franklin Field on April 25. This means that their great athlete, Abrahams, will accompany the team. Abrahams has done 9 4-5 sec. for the 100 yards, 21 4-5 sec. for the 220 yards, 49 3-5 sec. for the quarter, and 23 ft. 8 3-5 in. for the broad jump. He won three events in the Cambridge-Oxford, Harvard-Yale meet last July and is one of the greatest track athletes in the world. Pennsylvania has also invited Eric Liddell, of Edinburgh University, Scotland, the British 100 yard and 220 yard champion, to compete at the carnival. Liddell holds the British records for the above distances at 9 7-10 and 21 3-5 seconds, respectively.

According to the Poughkeepsie Eagle News, Hamilton's basketball team and especially Captain-elect Hatch seemed to have made a very favorable impression on the recent New York trip. The following account of the St. Stephens game at Annandale is taken from the write-up in that paper:

"From the start of the game to the end the local collegians were outclassed—their shots missed fire, their offense was broken up, their defense could not hold the speedy up-staters. "Hamilton came here with a reputation for classy basketball, and it upheld its honor. Its pass work was a treat. Its defense was excellent and its following of every shot was pleasing to watch. Hatch, the 18 year-old freshman on the Hamilton team, was the individual light of the game, shooting the ball cleanly into the meshes with deadly accuracy from all corners of the court.
